

Consider three HVAC domain spaces that are contained in a zone.

Each space has its own space temperature property, and there is a similar property of the zone. These are instances of an ObservableQuantifiableProperty.

Each of the spaces has a temperature sensor that observes the temperature property.

